

Studio North Building small-scale rural interventions

Studio North is a six day intensive building workshop. The workshop will offer students the opportunity to engage with the rural landscape and to imagine, develop and construct inventive design solutions. An architectural education is best experienced through engagement in all aspects of the building process. This workshop will be a fully immersive design experience.

The workshop will take place on a 117 acre farm in Norwich, Vermont. Each session will investigate a particular interest and respond with the design and construction of a complete prototype structure. The workshop will be limited to ten students and led by architect Keith Moskow and Robert Linn of the Boston based firm, Moskow Linn Architects.

Apply
Studio North is currently seeking applicants for the workshop of June 18th - June 23rd, 2012. The workshop is open to interested students of all abilities. Previous construction experience is not required.
